SHIPPING NOTES.

The bark Forest-Island Company has been moved to the Inter-Island Company's wharf to receive sugar.
The bark Amy Turner, Captain C O Johnson, arrived Saturday, Oct 27, 153 days from Boston. She brought about 1,700 tons of cargo, including 5,000 cases of kerosene oil in transit for Manila.
The Amy Turner left Boston May 24th, anchored in Nantasket roads same day; was wind-bound there 4 days.
After leaving the roads had several days of light southerly winds and foggy weather. June 9th, latitude 33 deg 09 min N, longitude 41 deg 12 min W passed the wreck of the brigantine Warren W. of Charlotte, P. E. I., water logged and dismasted. Took the N. E. trades, in latitude 30 deg N longitude 121 deg W, and lost them in latitude 8 deg N, longitude 27 deg W. Had 7 days of equatorial doldrums. Took the S. E. trades in latitude 3 deg S and longitude 25 deg W. Crossed the equator in latitude 28 deg W June 30th. Lost the S. E. trades in latitude 29 deg S longitude 38 deg W. Was 24 days from 50 deg S in the Atlantic to 50 deg S in the Pacific with almost a constant succession of head winds. August 1st sighted and passed Cape Horn, mountain tops covered with snow. Carried N to N W winds to latitude 16 deg S longitude 85 deg W, where we met the S. E. trades which were light and baffling throughout.
Crossed the equator in longitude 131 deg W on the 9th of October. Lost the S. E. trades in latitude 5 deg N longitude 128 W. Took the N. E. trades in latitude 10 deg N longitude 129 deg W. From the time of leaving Nantasket Roads until the S. E. trades were encountered in the Pacific had only 10 days of fair wind. Sighted Hawaii on Friday morning and made Honolulu the following day at daylight. Captain Johnson was formerly in command of the bark Edward May, and Captain Newell had been promoted to the new Hawaiian iron bark Fooling Suey now on the way from Glasgow to San Francisco. Captain Johnson was ordered from Manila to return and join the Amy Turner.
There were 7 steamers and 90 sailing vessels sighted on the voyage from Boston.

I OWE TEN DOLLARS TO O'GRADY.

I lost my situation twelve months ago to-day.
Divil a stroke I've done, from then till now.
They had me on half wages, I struck for better pay.
They fired me out before I raised a row.
I found me out before I ordered, from a tallor on our block.
I bought it on the new instalment plan I paid him just five dollars, that left me owing ten.
Pat O'Grady was the little tallor man chorus.
I owe ten dollars to O'Grady you'd think he had a mortgage on my life.
He calls to see me every morning, at night he sends his wife.
He wanted me to pawn my girl's piano.
I think O'Grady has a terrible gaul.
Unless he wants to wait I'll rub it off the slate.
And divil a cent he'll ever get at all.
A week ago last Sunday, I walked around the block.
To get a pint of German Lager Beer O'Grady stood there drinking, a glass of rye and rock.
I thought at one's he acted rather queer.
He said I was a blackguard, I said he was the same.
He struck me and we rolled upon the floor.
I whipped him in five-minutes O'Grady wasn't game.
As he walked away I couldn't help but poar.

SINGING CLASS.

The Y. M. C. A. singing class with Mr. A. D. Bissell, instructor, meets for the first real lesson at 7:30 this evening. Young men who were not present last Thursday evening, but wish to join the class, are requested to come to-night. Mr.
Bissell teaches the tonic sol-fa system, and the class promises to be an interesting one. Sixteen were present last week.

A DOUBTFUL COMPLIMENT.

A Mr. Harris, of Atlanta, was on the witness-stand in Fulton Superior Court, and was being examined by the then Attorney-General of Georgia.
The witness did not reply to a question as directly as the Attorney-General wished. The latter repeated his question, and added with emphasis: "Now, Mr. Harris, you certainly understand that question, for you are a very intelligent man."
"Thank you, Mr. Attorney-General," replied Mr. Harris, with a bow, "I would return the compliment with great pleasure, if I were not at present under oath."

THE SAN MATEO.

A Boston, Mass. paper has the following: The fine steel ship San Mateo, G. J. Crowell, commander, recently completed on the Clyde, though built and owned by American capital, has just made a triumphant progress through the Suez canal, en route to Honolulu. This ship carries the Hawaiian flag, and is the first to leave England and pass the canal under those colors.
Captain Crowell is the third American commander, and the first from Massachusetts, to make the passage.
It is too bad that so good a ship should have to be built on the Clyde, though American money paid for it, and too bad that so good an American commander should have to sail under a foreign flag. But our bad tariff and shipping laws make both necessary.

A CANOE ADVENTURE.

The manager of a leading hotel in Honolulu has always prided himself on being an expert in the management of canoes, either in paddling or sailing. Waikiki has been his favorite resort and his many friends including a number of ladies, can boast of having enjoyed many canoe rides with this popular manager. A few days ago he invited one of the officers of the war ships in port to join him in a canoe ride among the breakers at Waikiki. The officer was delighted and of course accepted the invitation. They started and all went well for a time until it was noticed from the shore that the two were in some kind of pil-kiss. Time went on and they were still in the same position. Another hotel manager whose hostility is at Waikiki ventured out in a boat to the scene and discovered that the canoe had met with an accident and the two occupants were badly bruised from the effects of having been bumped on the coral reef for nearly an hour and a half. They were glad to get into the boat, had finally reached the shore in safety, where they were each given a dose of Worcestershire sauce and wrung out.
The town manager has given up canoe riding for the present, while the officer declares the next time he goes out it will be with an expert and none other.

AIDING DESERTING SEAMEN.

The case of Tim. B. Murray, who on Oct. 25th was charged with aiding and abetting deserting seamen from the U. S. S. Brooklyn, was tried in the Police Court this morning. From the evidence it appears that Police Officer Dole received instructions to arrest two deserters named Kinney and Horn, from the Brooklyn. The officer went to Murray's house with the warrant and saw the two deserters on the verandah. Murray, he says, refused to let him go on to the premises, and during the loud talk, the two men got away at the back of the house.
Dole further stated in evidence that Murray said he would shoot him if he came into the house.

Other officers gave evidence and Capt. Larsen stated he afterwards arrested the two deserters.
Several witnesses were called for the defence, and after argument by counsel, Judge Dayton reserved judgment.

The Emperor William's determination to have all his bills of fare printed in German may not be due so much to his patriotism as to his unwillingness to see the French language slaughtered in the merciless way common to such literary productions.

Whale Boats.

IN answer to several enquiries concerning Whale Boat Frames, we have now in course of construction, 3 Whale Boat Frames 7 1/2 feet by 32 feet long. These frames are built in one piece of oak, and held to shape, thus requiring little labor to set them up and build. The full frame for such boats, including chutes, 45 sections in number, is sold at $28; with large stems on keel, and ready to plank $40. They are not intended to be clinker built, nor as the frail imported whale boats proper, but are intended for rough use and durability, yet light withal, for fishing and trading purposes. We have exported these frames and intend doing so, and make this offer to amateurs and others desirous of trying their hand, with plenty of leisure and small cash to make a business. Will send frames to any given model from 5 to 25 tons. Also on
